

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An injection moulding device (1) having a valve pin (11) and an actuating cylinder (15) connected to the valve pin (11). The valve pin head (37) is releasably attached to the piston (33) of the cylinder such that the cylinder can be removed while leaving the valve pin (11) from the nozzle such that a low headspace can be achieved above the nozzle.